GOSSIP OF THE RACETRACK

GREAT MIXUP IN THE BETTING ON THE FIFTH RACE.

Scratching of Altuda Results in Clash of Authority and All Sorts of Confusion -Thrilling Exhibition of Horsemanship by Apprentice Boy at Saratoga.

SARATOGA, Aug. 24.—There was some improvement in the racing here to-day, but it was far short of what might be termed high class. The fields with one exception were lacking in what might be termed the upper ten of the equine world. The afternoon uld have been decidedly dull but for an of th race. Odds had been displayed for some time with Altuda an even money favorite, when a rumor went the rounds that the filly had been scratched some time. A glance at the official board showed the filly's number as a starter, with Troxler to ride, and a post position. Soon after, however, came the announcer, for Cavanaugh, with the cry: "Scratch Altuda!" Then there was a second or two of quiet, followed by a howl for protection from the layers.

Eddie Burke, Charles Beevey and John
Evans, the executive committee of the Metropolitan Turf Association, met at once and hastily decided to declare all bets off, that is, not alone on the filly who was scratched, but on all the others made up to the time she was scratched. Secretary Sullivan was told to announce this and he did so a minute later.

Cavanaugh went the rounds ordering that the money bet on Altuda be refunded and that the wagers on the other horses were to stand. This of course brought a clash of authority as displeasing as it was bewilder-ing. The members of the Metropolitan Turf Association saw fit to stick to the dictum of their committee and the others followed Cavanaugh's orders. All this meant confusion galore and it will be days before many of he disputes will be settled.

As to the merits of the case opinions differ, but precedent certainly makes the stand but precedent certainly makes the stand of Cavanaugh the correct one. Similar cases are by no means rare—that is, horses being scratched after the betting has begun—and the decision always has been the same as that of Cavanaugh to-day and met with general approval. This justified his stand, and the only possible excuse for the change of opinion was that the filly was a favorite nd they had laid a false price against those that did run.

Many asked what right the Metropolitan Turf Association had to make any ruling in the case. As the betting is conducted these days it is a wager between two individuals, and one of the two, either individually or at the direction of some association to which he belongs, has no right to declare anything off unless the second party to the transaction is agreeable. As for refunding the money bet on Altuda, that is but equity. If one cannot have a run for his money he should not Cavanagh says to-night that he will stick to his stand, which means that all cases brought to him for decision will be in ac-cordance with his decision before the race was run. What is more, he is likely to question Secretary Sullivan's right to make any announcements in the betting quarters. The layers argue that the withdrawal of the favorite put them in bad, which it did. Still, it is declared, this hardly gave them the right to take the stand they did.

Many persons who had investments on the race knew nothing of what had been done in the way of declaring bets off. Those who bet on the horse made no attempt to collect what was due them, under the ruling that bets made before Altuda was scratched were off, and those who backed the three placed horses were indignant when told that all horses were indignant when told that all they could get was their money back. Among the layers who are not members of the M. T. A. it was just as difficult to explain that with them bets stood.

As to the error which brought all the trouble, it must be put up to the secretary's office. It was 3:20 o'clock when the filly was declared out by the filing of a scratch blank, and it was one minute of 4 when word came out that she had been withdrawn.

Algernon Daingerfield, who has been acting as clerk of the scales during the illness of
Mr. Cornehlsen, cannot be blamed, for he was busy at the time at a meeting of the stewards of the Jockey Club and had turned the duties for the time being over to Mr. Farlocker, the assistant secretary of the club. The latter says that the withdrawa of the mare was not reported to him by William Kane, who acts as assistant clerk of the scales. This would seem to put the blame on the last named, but he has the excuse that no rider was checked to ride the filly and her name should not have been cent out as a starter.

The Lad, one of the jumpers that has been racing in the colors of Charles Pfizer all season, died last night. He fell in a steeplechase about ten days ago, and since has been suffering from a bruised shoulder. Last night it was decided by Robert Neville, who bred im and who manages the stable for Mr. Pfizer, to put him in a sling to help in the treatment he was receiving. As the attendants went into his stall he jumped away and fell dead. It was then thought that the fall he had received some internal injury, and a post mortem was ordered. The carbut when the veterinary arrived it was found that the carcass had been deposited in a nest of bumble bees, and the veterinary declined the Job. The actual cause of death

J. Carroll, an apprentice boy under contract to M. J. Daly, gave an exhibition of rsemanship at the start of the second rac that earned for him something close to an ovation. He was on Brail, one of his employer's horses, and just as the barrier was prung some one collided with him, and the poy was all but thrown out of the saddle. He lost one stirrup, and for a stride or two he was literally under the horse, his arms clasped around Brail's neck. The starter's assistant rushed to his aid, but before they could reach him he had by some means managed to climb back into the saddle and went after the others. At one time on the backstretch, he caught his field, but tired again and finished last. When the boy came back to dismount he was greeted plause far more enthusiastic than that tendered the winner.

Bob McGibbon, the betting commissioner for John A. Drake and John W. Gates, to-day announced that his employees would stand by the decision in regard to his wager on Weston on Monday and settle in full. This afternoon the bets he made were repeated carefully before he left the stool of the layers ac-

The crowd was entertained by an impromptu foot race during the afternoon. A negro jumped the fence below the field stand and jumped the fence below the field stand and one of the Pinkertons started after him. They crossed the track at the head of the homestretch about ten feet apart and this gap was continued until they were well over in the in-field, opposite the grand stand. Here the negre fell from exhaustion and the Pink rolled over him. At last reports beth prisoner and capter were stretched out in Pinkerton's effice, trying to cool out.

Edna Jackson, who was beaten half a length by Ben Ban in the Seneca Stakes, ran a better race than her trainer, Fred Burlew, expected, for the going, which was slow and cuppy, was against her. Burlew said that had the track been dry he intended betting more money on her than he had ever bet on a race in his life. As it was, he let her run for the purse.

Montgomery's race to-day was by far the best the colt has run since he came East. Lyne rode him the other day and there was considerable dissatisfaction over his handling. Affilier had the mount to-day and he all but

NUTBOY WINS RICH TROT. Takes Two Baces for the Massa

READVILLE, Mass., Aug. 24.—A large crowd witnessed some fine racing at to-day's session of the Grand Circuit, the big event being the Massachusetts, with a purse of $9,000 to trot for. Nutboy won the bulk of the money in this event, taking the first and third races and losing the second race through races and losing the second race through a bad break at the quarter. Another fat purse was the Readville, for 2:08 trotters, Wilson Addiagton won the first and third races of the 2:13 pace, Princes Helen taking the second. The wind and sun dried out the track, but not sufficiently to make the going fast.

The cream of the trotting horses of the country were on hand for the Massachusetts. Nutboy, owned by Jack Crabtree of Boston, went away with a dash in the first race and led, all the way, finishing a length to the good over Dr. Chase, who came through the stretch very fast. In the second race Dr. Chase won by a nose from Allie Jay, Nutboy breaking at the quarter. But in the third race Nutboy opened up a big gap in the first hair and came home an casy winner.

THIRD QUINCY CUP RACE. Bonidrei Wins, Complicates Series, and

More Contests Are in Order. MANCHESTER, Mass., Aug. 24.—In a stiff easterly breeze to-day the Bonidrei, repre-senting the Boston Yacht Club, won the third race for the Quincy cup. The result further complicates the series, as each of the concomplicates the series, as each of the contestants except the Auk has now captured a race and the races will have to be continued next week to decide the winner. The protest filed by the Manchester against the Bonidrei because Designer Crowninshield, skipper of the latter, tacked so close under the bow of the defending craft yesterday that a slight collision occurred, was dismissed by the judges to-day.

The four boats were sent twice over a two and a half mile beat to windward and return, total distance ten miles. The Manchester crossed before the signal and had to return, giving the Chewink a good lead. The Auk gave her a short tussle, and then the Bonidrei went into second place. The first time over the course the Chewink led the Bonidrei by a few seconds, but on the second beat to windward both the Bonidrei and Manchester passed her. The Auk could not stand the breeze and was far in the rear. Summary:

EXPERTS TAKE TO HARVARD. Broken Oar and Damaged Shell, but Day of Smooth Rowing.

Special Cable Despatch to THE SUN LONDON, Aug. 24.—Drizzling rain kept the Harvard crew off the water at Putney until shortly before noon to-day. The eight was equipped for the first time with a set of Eng-lish made oars, but in putting off from the equipped for the first time with a set of English made cars, but in putting off from the boathouse No. 7 struck a buoy and split his blade. The crew then returned and got out its American oars and paddled a short distance downstream. The men seemed to row smoothly and in good form and created a very favorable impression on the onlookers. There are English experts who say that if the American crew can only keep in good condition they will surprise the English amateurs when the day for the race with Cambridge comes.

The Harvard crew was out again this afternoon and rowed the full course, the average stroke being 29. The time was 21 minutes 40 seconds. The crew rowed in excellent form. There was a slight mishap again this afternoon as the shell was putting out from the boathouse. No. 8 jabbed his foot through the bottom of the boat and the practice was delayed an hour while the damaged boat was being rescued and another being put in the water.

MISS SUTTON ON LOSING SIDE. She and Larned Beaten in Tennis by Mrs. Barger-Wallach and Wright.

NEWPORT, R. L., Aug. 24 .- An interesting mixed doubles at tennis was played this afternoon on the lawn of Mr. and Mrs. Oliver G. Jennings's estate, the participants being Mrs. Barger-Wallach and Beals C. Wright, Mrs. Barger-wallaon and Beals C. Wright, the national champion, and Miss May Sutton and William A. Larned, former champion. In the previous matches in which Miss Sutton has played here she won in straight sets, but this afternoon it was a different story. It took three sets to decide the match, and the victory went to Mrs. Barger-Wallaoh and Mr. Wright. The playing was hard and fast.

In the first set Mrs. Wallach and Mr. Wright had no difficulty in winning, but in the second Miss Sutton and partner turned the tables. With one set each they started the third set with a vim and it was very close up to a point where each pair had four games to their credit, when Mrs. Wallach and Wright made an extra effort, and taking two games in succession, won the set and match. The score: Mrs. Barger-Wallach and Beals C. Wright beat diss May Sutton and William A. Larned, 6-2, Tiptee Trims Sir Lynnewcod by a Small Margin-Senema Belle, Montgomery, Eudora and Royal Scot Succeed-Four Favorites Lose at Saratoga Track.

SARATOGA, Aug. 24 .- Four favorites were defeated here to-day and the bookmakers got a much needed breathing spell. The Seneca Selling Stakes, for three-year-olds, six furlongs, was won by H. B. Duryea's Ben Ban, 4 to 1, third choice, who came from behind in the stretch and defeated Edna Jackson, the favorite, in a hot drive by three perts of a length, Knapp putting it all over Hennessy. James Reddick, a 40 to 1 shot, did his best, taking third place from Pythia, 6 to 1, who led for nearly five furlongs. Disobedient, backed down to 3, was not far away at the end after a slow beginning. The time Was 1:15 2-5.

August Belmont's Tiptoe, 11 to 5 favorite was the leader all the way in the handicap for all ages at seven furlongs, but she tired in the last furlong and just lasted long enough to win by a head from J. E. Widener's Sir Lynnewood, 7 to 2, who closed resolutely and had no trouble in beating T. Hitchcock, Jr.'s, Sir Russell, 12 to 1, for the place. Inquisitor, 13 to 5, had no excuse and Aeronaut, with top weight, quit at the last furloug pole.

The time was 1:37 2-5.

Sonoma Belle, backed down to 7 to 2, second choice, ran her best race and won the second event at a mile and a furlong by a couple of lengths in 1:37. Corrigan, 6 to 1, after a poor ride, came with a great rush at the end and beat Water Dog, 12 to 1, who led for three-quarters of a mile, by three parts of a length for second money. The favorite, Macy, Jr., was never dangerous.

Miller rode his only winner of the day in Montgomery, 13 to 10 favorite, in the handicap for two-year-olds, five and a half furlongs. He had his mount well in hand, the Pessara colt breezing home four lengths in front of Old Honesty, 12 to 1, who got up in time to nip the place from Blondy, 4 to 1, by a head. August Belmont's Smiling Tom, 8 to 1, who also closed strong, was a head out of the money. H. P. Whitney's Jersey Lady, who had top weight, was prominent for more than half a mile, but she quit when Shaw let her down. The time was 1:08 4-5.

H. T. Griffin's Eudora, a 12 to 1 shot, after a duel with A. Spreckels's Alila, a 30 to 1 shot, for half a mile, went on and won the fifth race, for two-year-old fillies, five and a half furlongs, in a gallop. August Belmont's Glamor, backed down to 18 to 5, came from nowhere and got the place by a length and a half from Dainty Dame, 20 to 1, who beat Dulcinea, 9 to 10 favorite, by a head. The race was run in 1:09.

H. M. Ziegler's Royal Scot, played down to 11 to 5 second choice, made all the running in the last race, for maldens, at a mile, winning easily by two lengths from Fatinitza, a 15 to 1 shot. Johnstown, backed down to 7 to 10, was a big disappointment. Miller was beaten on two favorites, a second choice and two other mounts, his followers receiving another severe secrebing. The semi-final for the Southerland cup will be played to-day at Fox Hills and the final on Labor Day.

John Hobens, the Englewood Golf Club professional, in a match with Jack Jolly yesterday, whom he beat by 2 and 1, equalled the record of the links with 37, 34—71. He had seven 4s and two 3s coming in, but missed a 3 on the eleventh. The card:

OCEAN RACE IN 1908. German Emperor Said to Be Ready to Offer Another Cup.

The German Emperor, it has been reported here, is to offer another trophy for a race across the ocean in 1908. Since the race last year, which was such a success, he has been talking of another contest and had thought of arranging for a race for next year, but yachtamen who have been approached to see if they were ready for another race have discouraged the idea of having it so soon, and now it is said 1908 has been selected as the time for the next contest.

It is with the idea of another ocean race that plans have been made by yachtsmen here to have large schooners built, and the one for Edward R. Coleman, who raced last year in the Hildegarde, has been planned with another ocean race in view. This yacht with another ocean race in view. This yacht is to be 120 feet long and is to be rigged as a three masted schooner.

Other yachtsmen are planning to build ocean racers if another trophy is offered for a race acrosstheatiantic, and if the announcement is made in time it is expected that there will be several new yachts built on both sides of the Atlantic and the contest will be even more memorable than the race last year.

The German Emperor is doing all in his power to stimulate interest in yachting at home. He is taking great interest in the coming race for the Roosevelt cup and is kept power to stimulate interest in yachting at-home. Sold a Ball Player for a Quarter.

BROCKTON, Mass., Aug. 24.—On the spur of the moment J. J. Madsen, one of the di-rectors of the Holyoke Club, offered Pitcher Carson Hodge for sale to C. J. Danaher for a quarter, and the offer was immediately accepted. "Do you want to buy Carson Hodge?" asked Madsen as the two men stood talking asked Madsen as the two men stood talking together. "Yes, I would like to buy him; answered Danaher, "What's your price?" "I'll sell him for a quarter," the Holyoke man replied laughingly. "You're on," said Danaher. On the back of an old envelope Madsen wrote the following words: "I hereby sell Carson Hodge to C. J. Danaher of New Haven for the sum of twenty-five cents. The money was immediately produced by Danaher and as quickly pocketed by Madsen. Hodge was to have joined the New Haven team Wednesday, but the captain of the Holyoke team kicked so strenuously, declaring he was not consulted in the transaction, that Danaher says he will not force Holyoke to give the player up. Just what Madsen had in mind when he made this offer is not known, since no mention of a joke had been made.

Baseball Notes.

"Rabbit" seems to be a modish nick name for players. There are "Rabbits" Slagle, Huggins and Nil. Nill.

There have been numerous good judges of ball players, but mighty few that were the equals of Frank Selee in that regard.

Kid Elberfeld may not have parior manners on the ball field, but he knows his grammar. "I have it!" not "I've got it!" shouts the Kid when going for a fly ball.

Boston, Aug. 24.—The Boston American club has taken options on Lord, tailrd baseman; Knotts, catcher, and Chadbourne, outfielder, all of Worcester, for next year.

One of the best bas players in the country is Wid Conroy, who does his work with so little fuss that it doesn't come under the limelight as much as that of less valuable men. There is talk of the veteran catcher, Withert Rob-nson, a king of backstops in his day, succeeding fughey Jennings as manager of the Orioles. Hughey, it is said, is slated to manage a big league cam next season.

It sometimes happens that a daily patron of games for years never sees some particular pitcher in action. For instance, Patterson of the White Sox. If he ever pitched a game in New York the fact has escaped memory.

"Mertes has shown up better in every department than Shannon," is a St. Louis comment anent a recent deal. Which goes to show that it was an ideal bargain, for from a New York standpoint. Shannon has shown up better in every department than Mertes. ment than Mertes.

The Chicago Nationals have a good chance to break the National League record of victories this year. That record is 108 games, made by the New Yorks in 1904. The Chicagos have thirty-eight more games to play, and if they win twenty-two of them will have a total of 107.

New Yorks in 1904. The Chicagos have tarry-eight more games to play, and if they win twenty two of them will have a total of 107.

The New York Americans at least have the credit of making more runs in a single game against the White Sox since the lister started their unbroken string of wins than any other team. Griff's men made six counts against the Chicagos the other day, which is more than any other team has made in several weeks.

"Playing right field is entirely different from playing let; and I had to learn my game all over again," observes Schulte of the Cubs. "Right hand hitters seem to hit narder into right field than left handers hit into left field, so that a man shifting from one field to the other, as I did, will have to start from the very beginning to learn the angles of the right field. Fly balls have to be judged differently, and grounders have to be handled from the other side.

A dapper little gentleman, with bright eyes, dark hair, tinged with silver streeks, occupied a box seat. On all sides of him were men rooting for Pirate success, but never a word did he utter. In the ninth inning those near netleced that the silons one was nervous. His hands twitched, he twisted in his chair, and when Clarke came to bet he leaned far over the rail in front, and it was plain that he wanted to say something, but never a sound trickled from his lips. His keen eyes were fixed on Mathewson, and then on Clarke. When the latter hit the ball and Ritchey came over the plate with the winning run that quiet, unessuming little man arose and departed as silently as he had come. John McGraw, manager of the world's champions, was sad at heart.—Pittsburg Despatch.

Double headers were played in Cincinnati, where the Brooklyns divided with the Reds, and in Chicago, where the leaders kept up their unbeatable ball to the extent of two more victories at Philadelphia's expense. At Jersey City.—Rain. M'GRAW'S SUSPENSION LIFTED. Pulliam Says Law Restrains Him From Publishing Manager's Offence.

McGraw, who was suspended indefinitely by President Pulliam, will be eligible to re-sume active duty on the ball field to-day. In announcing this fact Mr. Pulliam, in a statement issued yesterday, says:

ment issued yesterday, says:

In view of the serious nature of the charges against Manager McGraw I have gone into this case more thoroughly than any case I have decided in four years.

I have required the umpire. Mr. Johnstone—as an evidence of good faith only, for I know him to be an honest and truthful man—to supplement his first report with an affidavit.

I have required a statement from Umpire Robert Emsile, who was Mr. Johnstone's assistant at the time McGraw was removed from the grounds at the conclusion of the game, and who heard, above the noise of the crowd, a portion of McGraw's remarks directed at Johnstone from the clubhouse porch.

I have requested and secured a statement from that sterling player and honorable gentleman Mr. John Killeg, in the interest of truth and fair play. Mr. Killeg was at the plate and heard the language used by McGraw before being ordered out of the game.

The statements of Measrs. Tinker. Steinfeldt, McGraw. Tuthill. Seymour, Bresnahan, Bowerman and a Air. Fleids have also been carefully read and considered.

My conclusion is that McGraw used the most villainous language one mortal could use to another to Umpire Johnstone in the ball field and well merited his removal.

Mr. Johnstone is to be congratulated that McGraw's incendiary remarks addressed to him while leaving the grounds from the security of the clubhouse baleony did not result in his being brought home to his family on a stretcher; and the manhood of those composing the crowd is to be praised, for there was not one so low and vile in that excited crowd to offer violence to a lone man.

I regret that I am unable to take the baseball in that excited crowd to offer violence to a lone man.

I regret that I am unable to take the baseball patrons into my confidence and give them the evidence before me, but the laws of the United States and the vigilance of Anthony Comstock prevent me from so doing.

The proper penalty to inflict in this case is not in my power to decree. The so-called baseball asset is zealously guarded. Some day the institution itself, the game and the league, will take precedence over all.

M'GRAW WILL GO TO COURT. Says Civil Action Is the Only Way He Can Get Justice From Pulliam.

PITTSBURG, Aug. 24.-After being notified to-night of his reinstatement by President Pulliam, Manager McGraw of the New York team issued the following signed statement: "It does not surprise me that I am reinstated at this particular time. I have called the turn several times. I knew that the suspension would last until after the Chicago and Pittsburg series. I think these are the clubs that Pulliam favors. He probably has no special liking for the Cincinnati club, and therefore I am allowed in the game in this in the rear of the grand stand and have seen the New Yorks lose games that ought to have in the rear of the grand stand and have seen the New Yorks lose games that ought to have been won.

"If we are out of the race for the pennant Pulliam is responsible. Pulliam regrets that he is unable to take the baseball patrons into his confidence and give them the evidence before im. He and Johnstone will have to answer to me in court before I am through with them, so he can give out his evidence if he has any, but I want both sides, something I have not had yet. The only way I have ever been able to get justice from Pulliam has been in civil action and before I am through with this the public will learn to what extent I have been matigned and vilified by him and Johnstone.

"I was indefinitely suspended for protesting against a decision of the umpire an August 6. I was given no reason for the suspension until August 18, although every club in the league, except the New York club, was furnished with a report of the umpire several days before this. I immediately filed with Pulliam six affidavits from people on the spot, denying having used the villatious language charged were never uttered by me, and yet he takes no action until twelve days later, or until after we have lost the most important games of the season.

"He prates about being the exponent of justice and fair play. His prees agent makes him in favor of a square deal. His square deal with me is like the one he tried to hand me last summer, when the Superior Court judge called him in Boston. If was guilty of the things charged I deserve the severest penalty; if I was not guilty, then some one else should be penalized, and before I am through it will be determined who it will be."

To Protect Si Seymour From Lemons. CINCINNATI, Aug. 24.—It has been intimated that the fans would treat Si Seymour to a shower of lemons when he appeared here to-morrow with the New Yorks, his first appearance since he recovered so suddenly, apparently, from a batting slump after joining the New Yorkers. President Pulliam today sent a telegram to President Herrmann, directing that the visiting players' bench be covered over and behind with an awning to protect Si from whatever the Red fans may want to do to him. There will also be twenty extra special policemen at all games of the series. They will serve as protection for the New Yorks and will also see that the New Yorks behave themselves. that the fans would treat Si Seymour to

FORM PREVAILS IN TENNIS

IRVING WRIGHT BEATS LEROY IN HARD MATCH.

Behr Romps Through His Centest With Page-Leonard, Jenes, Alexander, Clothier, Little and Hackett Also Survive the Newport Tournament

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 24.-Ranking form prevailed in the continuation of the national lawn tennis championship tournament to-day, although the struggles for places in the round before the semi-final were pro-ductive of three heartbreaking matches As the players now stand, Edgar W. Leonard meets J. D. E. Jones, and Frederick B. Alexander meets William J. Clothier in the top half, while in the lower section Karl H. Bahr Jr., meets Irving C. Wright, and Raymend D. Little meets Harold H. Hackett. These men are the survivers of the big fields that started in the tournament last Tuesday, and, barring the defeat of William A. Larned on Wednesday and the dropping out of Robert Leroy to-day, not a single match may be recorded as an upset.

All of the experts are at the keenest tension, and the solving of the eventy-sixth holder of the championship appears to be such a riddle as the Casino courts have not produced in any former season. The younger aspirants, particularly Behr, are now acknowledged strong factors, and it was this that led to the placing of Irving C. Wright and Robert Leroy on the main stretch of the turf before the grand stand this morning.

The younger Wright was put to a test of unusual severity to-day, and but for his splendid nerve the former intercollegiate cham-pionship would have defeated him instead f losing after he had won the first and sec ond sets.

The conditions under which this match was played handicapped both of the men to a considerable degree. Rain through the night and in the morning made the playing surface slow and when the weather cleared shortly slow and when the weather cleared shortly before they took their places on the court a strong breeze sprang up, which made all attempts at lobbing uncertain.

Wright led off with the service, but he was so slow that Leroy won the first game and followed up his advantage by playing swift drives off his forehand for passes, so that he led at 4-love before Wright began to come into the playing with any speed. Then he made a good stand at the net, but Leroy forced the points and led at 5-1. Wright's volleying scored three more games for him before Leroy was successful in capturing the set at 6-4. The second set was much of a repetition of the first. Leroy continued his placing across the court to the side lines in the following set and led at 3—2. Both men played fast tennis at this period and in the sixth game Leroy exhibited the first signs of weakening. He drove many of his returns into the net. From that to the end Wright's speed wore down Leroy. The former was at all times on the run, getting several tumbles on the slippery court, from one of which he played a winning place shot while on his knees. Leroy faded from the contest as Wright began to put forth greater speed and the latter won easily. The points follow:

possibly Hackett.

Hackett lost the third set of his match with Alfred Stillman, as the latter proved unusually accurate in his drives. The rest after the third set revived Hackett.

The interscholastic national championship has developed into an East vs. West match. L. Davenport, Harvard, has come into the final in which he meets J. Allan Ross, University of Chicago. Both displayed splendid playing qualities in their matches to-day, Ross being fast in his net game. The summary:
